Your credits

ASU accepts college-level (not remedial) courses in which you have earned a grade of “C” (4.00=”A”) or better from regionally accredited colleges and universities.

Maximum hours of credit

A maximum of 64 semester credit hours will be accepted as lower division credit when transferred from a regionally accredited community, junior or two-year college.

Determining GPA

Grades and honor points that you earned at other colleges and universities are considered for admission, but your ASU cumulative grade point average is based solely upon coursework taken at ASU.

Degree requirements

The ASU college of your major determines how transfer courses fulfill the degree requirements of your ASU major. You should review the degree requirements of the program into which you intend to transfer, and talk with an academic advisor about your transfer credits and how they will apply to your degree program.

Transfer Credit Guide

Search the Transfer Credit Guide to find out how undergraduate credits you completed at another college or university will transfer to ASU.

Your application process

General admission requirements

A transfer applicant is a student who has attended one or more colleges or universities and has completed 12 or more transferable credits post-high school. Students with 11 or fewer transferable credits are considered incoming freshmen. To transfer to ASU, you must meet one of the following requirements:

Transfer students with 12 or more transferable credits must have a minimum 2.50 cumulative GPA. Transfer students with 12 – 23 transferable credits must also meet freshman aptitude requirements.

Students who have earned an associate degree from a regionally accredited higher education institution must have a minimum 2.00 cumulative GPA (residents) or 2.50 cumulative GPA (nonresidents).

Some majors have higher admission requirements. To find the requirements for your specific program, please visit ASU’s Degree Search.
