Your transfer guide

Arizona State University
As you choose where to complete your bachelor’s degree, you’re likely seeking out universities that offer you the most opportunities for growth and future success. I invite you to consider Arizona State University. As a transfer student, you’ll gain access to all the resources and opportunities of a research university — including faculty members at the top of their fields making groundbreaking discoveries that you could be a part of, and more than 400 highly ranked degree programs to choose from, all in a global environment with students and faculty from all over the world.

ASU is a smart decision for a quality education. Think of completing your bachelor’s degree as an investment in yourself and your future. We offer competitive tuition rates and more than $1 billion in financial aid each year, so you’ll get the most for your money during your time here.

ASU has a commitment to our students: we provide a safe, diverse and welcoming environment for you to pursue your education. By transferring to ASU, you’re preparing yourself for a lifetime of success no matter what you want to do.

I hope you’ll consider joining the Sun Devil family.

Your application process

General admission requirements
A transfer applicant is a student who has attended one or more colleges or universities and has completed 12 or more transferable credits post-high school. Students with 11 or fewer transferable credits are considered incoming first-year students. To transfer to ASU, you must meet one of the following requirements:

- Students with 12 or more transferable credits must have a minimum 2.50 cumulative GPA. Transfer students with 12–23 transferable credits must also meet first-year student aptitude requirements.

- Students who have earned an associate degree from a regionally accredited higher education institution must have a minimum 2.00 cumulative GPA (residents) or 2.50 cumulative GPA (nonresidents).

Rolling admission
ASU evaluates admission applications once received and completed. Completed applications include a submitted transfer admission application, application fee, and official high school (if applicable) and college or university transcripts from all previously attended institutions.
